

LCC's data management

As a member of our mailing list you will know we send out periodic emails to update you on activities of LCC, and to signpost related people, organisations, activities and events that we think might interest you.

Being on our mailing list mean we keep a record of some basic information about you – your name, address, contact information (phone number, email address, social media presence), your constituency, any offices held, specific coast and/or country interests, and any correspondence we receive from you (where relevant to our work).

We won't give, sell or share your information to anyone else.

From time to time photographs are taken at our events. Please let us know if you wish to opt out of them, and their subsequent use.

Cookies - The Labour:COAST&COUNTRY website, hosted on WordPress uses traffic log cookies to identify which pages are being used. A cookie is a small file that asks permission to be placed on your computer's hard drive. This helps us analyse data about webpage traffic and improve our website. We only use this information for website analysis purposes.

A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser settings to decline cookies if you prefer.

To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit www.aboutcookies.org to see step-by-step guidance on how to control and delete cookies for your browser type.

All the information on this will be held on file at our registered office, address below.
